Energy Efficiency Tip

KEEP TRACK OF YOUR ELECTRONICS!

Is your AC working overtime and driving up the bills? There might just be an easy solution!

Heat generating electronics like lamps and TV's are often placed unwittingly right near our thermostats, tricking them into thinking your room is hotter than it really is and making them work harder than they need to. Devices like computers, curling irons, hair dryers, stereos, and televisions can also quickly heat up your house, so make sure they're turned off when they're not being used.

Safety First

NATURAL GAS PIPELINE SAFETY

When you're at home, work, and out in your community, Unitil is always behind the scenes making sure natural gas is being delivered safely and reliably. We monitor our gas system 24/7 with the ability to respond to any potential emergencies. We make regular, proactive upgrades to infrastructure and technologies to improve delivery. We also work closely with emergency responders, and consistently conduct drills and trainings on all emergency response procedures.

These proactive efforts are all part of our Integrity Management Program — a plan that outlines all the measures Unitil takes to keep the gas system safe and running smoothly in our communities.

At Unitil, safety comes first because you come first. You can read a summary of the Integrity Management Program at unitil.com/IMP.
